What our Clinicians say about the Graduate Plus+ Program

Jamie Broadbent – Physiotherapist

Working through the program has provided me great structure, purpose and opportunities to deliver services at a community level. You get to experience a wide variety of conditions and injuries that come through the practice, whilst the opportunity to learn different manual handling techniques and treatment ideas. There's plenty to gain during the regular professional development sessions and you are well supported throughout your journey.

Hayley Owens – Exercise Physiologist

Applying for a job after my studies was overwhelming, but I knew I needed somewhere that would facilitate both professional and personal growth. Exercise for Rehabilitation and Health gave me guidance and time to really understand myself, build trust in my skills and understanding of complex conditions, and ultimately led me to becoming highly specialised in an area that very few chose to enter into.

Meet your Mentors

Peter Vitale – Physiotherapist | Clinical Director

There is a distinct pattern that we notice in all new graduates that are looking to embark on a private practice career, that is, they have had limited to no experience in a private practice setting and are not private practice prepared.

I enjoy helping our grads to consolidate their knowledge, identify gaps, direct them to relevant resources as well as practically get in and work with them to bridge the gap and set them up for success.

I'm really passionate about helping them to build the skills that they need to manage and build a caseload. I'm very hands on with our practitioners, where we co treat, work on developing manual skills, as well as assessment and diagnostic skills, create treatment maps and management plans to ensure that our treatment is world class. It's a real buzz working with physio's that are motivated to do a good job and are willing to put in the work to reach their goal

Craig Harrison – Senior Exercise Physiologist | Team Leader

I love being able to nurture and draw out the inquisitiveness and curiosity in our graduates when they apply their clinical decision making. Whether it is helping to develop their soft skills in communication, building a thorough knowledge in collaborative clinical care, or challenging beliefs around recovery and movement, it is highly rewarding to be so involved in this.

I feel my strengths as a practitioner with close to 10 years of clinical and mentoring experience with a large team of practitioners positions me well to help new graduates to build their own areas of strength, while supporting their drive towards excellence.
